Vampire Rain and Other Stories J.R. Rain

Some vampires don't die. Some vampires can't be killed. At least, not by mortals. In "The Night Knows Me Well," one ancient vampire takes it upon himself to rid the world of a deadly plague...himself.

In "They Came From the Sea," Clyde Goodbook makes a fantastic discovery in his backyard...a discovery that changes his life forever.

In "Merlin's Tomb," two children are about to come face-to-face with one very famous wizard...

And a bonus short story that features one very famous—and deadly—masquerade ball.

Glenda says

nothing special

Tracy says

I liked most of the stories....they were short and easy to read. There were a total of 4 stories, I found The Masques of the Red Death not that exciting. If you havent read many "supernatural" books this might be the one to start with...

Myra Wray says

I did not find this as good as other books and I am very disappointed in it.

Jennifer says

Just could not get into this.

Nick Wilson says

good collection of stories, really enjoyed them

Maggie Frank says

Remember that horrible movie back in the day which detailed a variety of horror stories based on a comic book ~ Creepshow? JR Rain's short stories in this novel would have made an amazing movie in comparison! A vampire with a conscience, a successful gentleman who has visitors from the sea "mate" in his private pool, and a bizarre and creative tale of Merlin all make for a great read - thank you for the ride!! Highly recommend:)
