Back to Jerusalem: Three Chinese House Church Leaders Share Their Vision to Complete the Great Commission Paul Hattaway

Napoleon once said "When China is moved it will change the face of the globe." Today those words are becoming a reality through the powerful spiritual vision of the Chinese church to send 100,000 missionaries across China's borders to complete the Great Commission, even in this generation. Here Brother Yun, Peter Xu Yongze, and Enoch Wang, three Chinese house church leaders who between them have spent more than 40 years in prison for their faith, explain the history and present-day reality of the Back to Jerusalem movement. Christians everywhere who are called to fulfill the Great Commission will be thrilled by this testimony and inspired to live bolder lives as disciples of Jesus Christ.

Clara Roberts says

This book was hard to put down. It was a Chinese version of a command to do missions. Among the many quotes are "History shows that when people become isolated and inbred they get genetic defects and grow weak. The same applies to the Church". "When we serve God it's important to concentrate on His character and our obedience to His leading." "When you seek to bring blessings to others, your own lives will be blessed" "The Christian life is one of action for Jesus, not inaction" "There are more than enough Christian 'believers' in the world today. God wants more disciples." The Dead Sea has 153 sources of fresh water flowing into it but no water flowing out.

Caitlin Gendur says

I read this book for my World Missions class, and it absolutely blew me away. It gave me an idea of how the Church in China is doing, and how God is working. The authors have been through a lot and share the depths of their hearts. Encouraged immensely.

i picked up this book right after my brother returned from his missions trip in China back in summer of '07. the testimonies contained in this book left me mournful yet uplifted. it has allowed me to reflect back on my lack of spiritual life. this book has also reaffirmed the truth in the book of Revelations for me.

Anna says

The stories in this book left me stunned, tearful and disturbed by the complacency of my own spiritual life. The book also introduced me to a missionary movement that I previously knew nothing about.

Linda says

The Communists taking over actually helped pave the way for the spread of Christianity. It forced them to have one major language instead of many different dialects, developed a better road system, and other things that helped spread Christianity. Many more interesting facts.

Karen Linton says

Should be required reading for every person who names the name of Christ.

Mindee Berkman says

I was inspired and convicted by this book. I am one of those comfortable western Christians who has no idea what it means to give up all and follow Christ. I am grateful for this book. It destroyed me in so many ways. A must read.

Damon Barnhurst says

This was an interesting perspective from Chinese Christians. Yes, I can use those two words in the same sentence. There are many Christians living in China and trying to practice their religion. The government cracks down on Christianity but many are still defenders of the faith, even at the cost of persecution and long prison sentences. A couple interesting ideas from this book... the leaders of the congregations said they did not want issues with denomination power struggles. But without a clear focus and direction from a prophet how will they be united? I love the mission of BtJ to teach all about Christ, even going to neighboring countries because of difficulties in China. But I have to say that in order to establish trust with the Chinese government, the BtJ cause, and Christianity in general, needs to follow the laws of the land. With Jesus fanatics not being mindful of Chinese law is no way to build a relationship of trust and Christianity in China. Overall, I gave this book a five star because it was fascinating, and inspiring to me. For the most part, I highly support what they are doing.

Gavin Breeden says

Stories from the underground church in China. There are lots of charismatic things in the book, including the claim that a person was raised from the dead at one of their meetings. Regardless, their zeal for Christ and missions is encouraging and contagious.

Samuel Rood says

Amazing things are happening as God's Spirit is moving God's people. A key piece to what God is doing today.

Alan says

I did not like this book because I found it completely repetitive to The Heavenly Man, which was far more interesting a story. This book provided the same information without the storyline to keep me interested.

Jan Norton says

This is interesting insight into the working of this movement.

Carrie says

A great read about the Chinese church's vision to carry to gospel to the remaining unreached people groups around the world. I'd recommend this book to people to encourage them to trust God for big things and that we could possibly see the Great Commission fulfilled in our lifetime.

This read will go down in history as the most transformative one for me in December 2019! This book is the amazing story of what God is doing in the hearts of believers in China--though it really shouldn't be amazing because it is what God has been doing in the hearts of true believers throughout history. But this book really helped me see the stagnant state of my own heart! This is one of those books I had dreams about during the time I was reading it. I pray that I would allow God to work the changes He desires in my heart. And I also pray for the house church in China and the unreached people they are focusing on reaching out to. May God give them the courage they need in the face of incredible opposition!
