I like this, but BDSM and medical gets me everytime. This is the second novella aprox 67 pages in Chloe Cox' Doctor's Orders series of 4. The gorgeous, Dom Doctor tries to help Claire get over her fears of public humiliation by inserting a vibrating butt plug into her, then getting her well and truly revved up and sends her to a diner for truckers. The rest if you wish to know then read it. It is erotic, not quite as good as the first in the series, but English and editing is reasonably good and so borderline just a 4 star for me. I'm off to find the third in this series.

This book is labeled as EROTICA. Please do not read this review if you are not comfortable with that type of book.

Claire is unhappy with life when she receives and invitation to meet with the Doctor. After her first appointment, which was chronicled in the short story titled The Exam (available free at barnesandnoble.com) her second appointment is chronicled in this book.

Again Claire is asked questions, what is she scared of? What makes her nervous? And of course the Doctor gives her a a quest that will test her and push her to do things that force her to overcome those fears and nervousness.

The plays off the first book, and it really is something that needs to be read as a whole in the series. It presents a full story when all put together.

It's romance and erotica, but it is pushing the boundaries and overcoming fear. Making ourselves better people, in this example using the sexual but it is just the same in the rest of life.

Something off the normal path of reading for a change.

Doesn't hold your attention for as long as the first in the series, but still an entertaining book nonetheless.

The second appointment for Claire with the doctor during which she is pushed towards choosing to have sex in public but is caught before the act by a cop, who she quickly seduces into taking the place of her partner. All the while the doctor is controlling her feelings with a remote control device which she is not allowed to remove.
