Trust in Time Brenda Butler

Abby Santos left an abusive marriage several years ago. Now her life is full, and she is confident and self-assured. She has built a thriving midwifery business in Pueblo Valley. Her closest friend, Cassie, is more of a sister to her, and they've helped each other through all the good and bad in their lives. Jon Shaw is a cop; charismatic, handsome, and flirtatious. Abby finds herself captivated by Jon's easy charm, but questions becoming involved for two big reasons - her fear this confirmed bachelor could break her heart, and the fact that he is Cassie's new brother-in-law. Abby is afraid to risk jeopardizing her heart to someone who has never seemed to want a committed relationship. Jon finds himself deeply attracted to Abby, but he wants to resist as he's been hurt in the past. When Abby starts receiving a series of threats, Jon's inclination to protect her is fierce. It becomes his mission to find out who's responsible for the growing threats, but can he find this person before he or she gets to Abby? Jon and Abby must work together to solve the mystery before time runs out. Can they learn to trust each other and follow their hearts along the way?

I won this book through a Goodreads giveaway. Thanks. =)

My rating: 3.5

I really enjoyed this read but.....

The author writes in extreme detail. It made a 319 page book feel like 500 pages.

Also, some things were even repeated numerous times.

I received this book from the Goodreads first read program.

Courageous Abigail Santos has come through a lot in her life to reach a point where she is happy and fulfilled. She overcame an abusive relationship and the death of her beloved father. Now she is the owner of a midwifery business in the town of Pueblo Valley. Abby is content with her life and the path it has taken. She cherishes her job as a midwife and finds great joy in helping women deliver healthy babies.

One day, after a particularly long delivery at the hospital, all she wants in food, a shower and sleep. What she doesn't need is to be pulled over by the flashing lights of a police car. The officer turns out to be the brother-in-law of her best friend Cassie. Jon Shaw and Abby have met at various Shaw family gatherings so they are not strangers to each other. Jon, a good looking and flirtatious man is a confirmed bachelor. And Abby is not looking for any relationship, never mind the brother-in-law of her best friend. But destiny has other plans for Jon and Abby, when Abby starts getting threats from an unknown source. While as a cop he is honor-bound to protect and serve, his feelings for Abby go beyond the professional. Jon has the overwhelming urge to protect Abby. But before Jon and Abby can move forward with a serious relationship, both must face issues from the past. And they both have to learn to listen to their hearts.

Brenda Butler does a wonderful job of dealing with the emotions of this romance with a twist of suspense on the side.
