Too Cool for School Grace Dent

Keeping a diary isn't exactly cool but Shiraz Bailey Wood (15) knows she'd best start writing one. She's going to need it in a few years when she writes her best-selling autobiography.

It was a really good book. i recommend that anyone who likes diary books to read it or just teenages books about thier life.

Chelsey says

I read this book a long time ago and i honestly cant remember exactly the story but i remember loving all the 'Diary of a Chav' books. i read them when i was 11 and i loved them. Highly recommend.

Beth Lloyd says

Still funny, love these books.

Hannah says

Ridiculous. Absolutely hated it. Didn't even finish it. Poor, poor, poor excuse for a book.

Apryl Joyce says

They say you should never judge a book by its cover. But I bought this book specifically for its cover. haha. The story is great but i never got to finish or start the whole series

Bethany says

This is probably my best book by far. It's the first one I read of the series of books but I was hooked in because it was really funny. You don't have to be a chav to understand or like it but I would recommend it to mostly girls.

Shannon Jackson says

I read the when I was around 10/11 and I thought it was the bees knees. It was funny and not just haha funny, but laugh out loud funny.

Picked it up the other week and read a few pages, and to be honest, it wasnt that great. Maybe my sense of humour has changed, but I did really enjoy the whole series when I was younger.

Rachel Pollard says

As a Teen, I actually enjoyed the saga of diary of a chav, reading the antics of Shiraz was quite interesting! Although I did secretly want her to stay with Wesley and not allow dee dee onto the scene! I enjoyed the set out on which Grace Dent set for the story's and I lool forward to reading more of her work!

Amelia says

Ha ha ha, bare jokes!!! Lol! Very good, lovin' this author! Finished this book in 2.5 hrs, just shows how engaging it is. Would advise that you learn Essex/chav/slang talk though eg. Choong, blud, bare jokes etc!!

Jacki says

this is the third book in the diary of a chav series and it's really great. After leaving sixth form, Shiraz and her best mate Carrie leave Goodmayes and move to london. Carrie already has a job at butterz beauty school but shiraz finds it really hard to get a job. Meanwhile she's having problems in love when she finds out that Wesley Barrington Bains II has got a new girl: "Sooz the Flooz" but it gets better when she meets Danny from working magic. She has many jobs including a tourguide on the london eye who makes up crazy stories about London's history and a Christmas elf at the house of Hardy store. She does find a good job however, working as an intern who writes a artical about real life, once Carries new posh mate Kitten Montague Jones leaves because Shiraz exposes her in the London paper. Carrie is just being a rude snob to Shiraz so she is very happy when blast from the past Uma Brunton-Fletcher comes to stay for a while with her pet staffy Zues. The next thing shiraz knows another friend from her "Super-Chav Academy" secondary school Sean Burton shows up. It is only then she realises that Danny from Working Magic, who she was crushing on for ages, is actually gay, as he starts going out with Sean! Meanwhile, Carrie is dropped out of the circle when there is a conflict between her and Kitten Montague-Jones, when she discovers that they both have the same boyfriend. So carrie re-enters the real world and she makes up for all the time she has been a shog to shiraz by getting two tickets for Ibiza. Uma and her other friend Kezia are probably coming too so they will probably have a great holiday.
