Corduroy has a lot to do at school today. He has to bring in something that starts with the letter "B," feed the classroom pets, listen to a story, paint, have a snack, and help clean up. And all of his favorite friends are there to share the school day with him. In seven colorful spreads, children can lift the flaps and see what's hiding in the cubby, behind the swing, under the drawing pad or in many more inventive places.

And Corduroy, the lovable, cuddly bear, is just the right, reassuring presence to make children feel comfortable with all the early experiences school can bring.

Corduroy Goes to School is a lift-the-flap-book. This is a good book to read out loud to students during the first couple of days of school. It will familiarize students with the daily routine of the class. They will enjoy the pictures, and they will love guessing what objects or things are behind the flaps in the book.

Lesley Dahlseng says

School-themed books are a great way for children to either work up some excitement or calm down their anxiety for the beginning of the school year. Based on Don Freedman's beloved Corduroy, this introduction to school is a must-read.

B.G. Hennessy skips the common before-school jitters plot and dives right into a school day as though Corduroy is a pro. This strategy seems to create a more positive effect overall. Though it can be beneficial to address school fears in a story's beginning, it can also be more difficult to build up a positive momentum. On the contrary, this book radiates positive energy from cover to cover! We are escorted through playground fun, story time, puzzles, painting, and more.

The best element is the book's design. Lisa McCue is one of my favorite illustrators, always bringing beautifully rich, bright colors to each page. Added to this beauty is a lot of lift-the-flap fun which all kids love. Our little readers will want to look through this book over and over and over again.

I only have one disclaimer, which is that some have complained about their edition's illustrated color not matching with what the text claims it should be on one page. This, however, must have been fixed, since others claim their edition to be correct.

Recommended for children ages 2 to 4!

Several mistakes between the text and illustrations. Come on!

(Otherwise fine lift-the-flap Corduroy story.)

Judy says

There's so much to do at school! And everything looks interesting.

Rosa Cline says

This is a fun book for going back to school. Corduroy is at school and gets to do all kinds of things. Throughout the story there are many various lift flaps a young reader-listener can raise and see new things. This book is a good interaction book for an adult trying to get a toddler to talk and answer questions about as well... simple pictures within the big pictures and fun interesting ones.

Mary says

My kids like lifting the flaps to see what's beneath, and I like the memory it brings up for me of stations in kindergarten classes (area for reading, for dress-up, for doing puzzles, etc.)

Laneika Cason says

PB8. A perfect book to get young children excited about the first day of school. It shows all the fun that Corduroy and his friends had at school.
