It's been four years since Tex and I spent the most amazing night of my life together, then I never heard from him again. After pining for that arrogant playboy for four years, I can't wait to graduate so I can go home and never see his gorgeous face again. But when I get home, my whole world is turned upside down.

My mom is getting remarried... to Todd Calaway.

In exactly 152 days, Tex Calaway will be my stepbrother.

I guess I should be happy. In 152 days, Tex will be my sibling and he will officially be off limits. Then I can't give into any of the filthy urges he's awakened inside me.

Yep. I should be ecstatic that I'm sleeping down the hall from Tex, showering while he's in the next room, running wedding errands with him. I should be overjoyed when I hear my bedroom door creak open and find Tex standing in my doorway, his rock-hard abs glistening in the hazy moonlight.

But I couldn't be more miserable. Because under that rock-hard exterior, Tex is still a cocky asshole. And he's harboring a dark secret. A secret he doesn't want to talk about it.

Tex Calaway is not a talker. He's a doer. And I am so done.
