North of Clever Suzann Ledbetter

Hannah Garvey and her gang of senior sleuths are back -- just in time to get mixed up in another murder case. The circus has come to Sanity, Missouri, bringing with it magician Reilly Boone, who's claiming to be Hannah's long-lost father. Sheriff David Hendrickson is convinced Reilly and his lady-illusionist wife, AnnaLeigh, are running a scam, until AnnaLeigh catches a real bullet during their act. Now, with Reilly the number-one suspect in her murder, Hannah and the nosy residents of Valhalla Springs can't help but get involved....

Susan says

Hannah has never known her father, so when a visiting circus magician declares that he is, indeed, the man and has been searching for her for years, her boyfriend, sheriff David Hendrickson, thinks that it's a con. But he knows so much about her family! When her putative father is accused of murdering his beautiful, autocratic wife, he has no one to turn to but Hannah. But the lead investigator and David are both uncomfortable with the open-and-shut case against him. Can he be that good at misdirection and yet that stupid about the police?

Tina says

When the circus comes to Sanity, can murder be far behind? Hannah and the seniors are up to their eyeballs in murder once again in this hilarious third installment of the series.

Helen Corona says

A slow book to get into...took me about two chapters before I could get into it. A little bit on the korny side. I don't think I will get into the series.

Robin says

I think that I would have enjoyed it more if I had read the other books in the series. too many storylines from the previous books that aren't explained enough that I could get invested. the mystery was to slow and longing winded.
