Midnight's Story: The Gifts and Legacy of a Very Special Dog V.F. Gutierrez

An impactful narrative about a Belgian shepherd military dog, who serves part of her active duty in a war zone. She is seriously affected by the violence, becomes a killer dog and designated unsafe to be around people. Fortuitously she survives and lives to tell her life story. In doing so she reveals unknown secrets of the canine world and the special relationship that dogs have with humans. Follow her life from birth through military service in Afghanistan and Florida as well as her equally incredible civilian life. A fictionalized story inspired by true events that will make the reader wonder where fantasy ends and reality begins.

Weird but interesting.

Sharon says

Short easy read with a fantasy twist. 3.5 stars

I would like to extend my thanks to goodreads and the book's giveaway sponsors for the opportunity to obtain a copy of this book.

Becky says

This story is about Midnight, a dog who is chosen. The story is told through Midnight's point of view. The story is fast and easy to read. You will feel the connection between Midnight and the humans that come into her life and the special bond she has with them. As the story progresses, you will learn why Midnight is Chosen. This story is fiction.

Dayna says

This dog-person never reached the necessary suspension of disbelief, though the book's premise is charming. Without meaning to be pedantic, I need to comment that the past tense of 'lie down' is 'lay down'; given how often it is repeated throughout the book, it became a grating distraction. I received a Kindle edition from a Goodreads giveaway.
