Dérivé: A Trini Expat Comes Home Jennylynd James

Dérivé (pronounced Dreevay) is French for drift, go off course, or gallivant. At nineteen, Jennylynd James drifted for the first time from her home in Trinidad and Tobago to attend university abroad. It was the start of a lifelong passion for travel and adventure. This expatriate's quest to find balance between the need for adventure and the desire to return home is described in a witty collection of stories of nostalgia and mad risk-taking. With a mix of humour and colloquial sayings of Trinidad and Tobago, the reader is drawn into the lifestyle and culture of this Caribbean melting pot.

SALLY WHITE says

Thank you Goodreads for sending me this book. I have really enjoyed this book and have dipped in and out of it in the last few weeks. If you are interested in travel and different countries and cultures, then this is definitely worth a read. With this book I got a real sense of the country Jennylynd was talking about.
