Tom Spruce says

Issue 9-10 was a slice of life story that reminded me how adorable MLP can be. Katie and Andy churn out gold. They should've been show runners!

Amelia Beauchamp says

loved it

Natalia Jagielska says

Enormous drop since last story arc

Joy says

Issues 9-10 make up "Zen and the Art of Gazebo Repair"

Granny Smith complains that the Gazebo is squeaky. Big Mac attempts to repair it but finds he is out of nails. The Summer Wrap-Up Festival and Hoedown is going on in Ponyville and Big Mac must travel through it to get to the hardware store for more nails.

The Cutie Mark Crusaders are up to their old antics in this installment. Random characters from the TV show (like Trixie) show up. The page showing his journey with a dashed line (a la Family Circle) is priceless. Luna's part is also well written. Pay attention to the sayings on her shirt, which change every frame. The Paper Doll Big Mac in the back of the comic is also amusing.

Kari Duet says

Adorable. I absolutely love it. The facial expressions are hilarious.

Kurami Rocket says

2.8

This has got to be the weakest issue yet in the series. It feels more like filler than anything. Still managed to be somewhat entertaining though.

I feel him though, when you just want to be left alone to get your job done or whatever else it may be, but everyone around you keeps bugging you. Can be quite the annoyance. I would have already screamed and ripped my hair out if I were that pony.
