I gave up after 10 minutes of getting "stuck" in the same forest area. Lots of inane flipping back and forth with no dialogue and going nowhere.

Camille Kraus says

I won this book in the good reads giveaway! This was a super cute, fun and unique choose your own adventure book. I read it with my 16 year old brother and we had a great time!

My son found this very engaging and fun!

Farren Voels says

The characters and setting are vibrant and upbeat. It is a very interesting way to read a book furiously flipping back and forth to follow twisting paths. I will admit I got lost in the forest a few times when getting used to the game elements. Over all it is a fun romp through a quirky magic world and very reminiscent of old point and click adventures.

Barbara Senteney says

Very cute, and engaging. It's a comic book that gives you options to create more than one adventure. So it's also a game. A little young for my taste but perfect for kids age 8 and up. There are over 350 illustrations. A hunt for missing Dwarf's , seems like a great adventure for kids who enjoy puzzles, and the pictures could entertain for many hours alone.
